Heiltsuk place names: a Wakashan perspective

Evelyn Windsor Wákas
Bella Bella Community School

This paper provides a telling of Evelyn Windsor’s life in a long-term historical perspective: as a Wakashan speaker, as a person who passes on the historical narratives, as a native linguist, and as a colleague with other linguists. It then gives examples of her ongoing work on the morphological analysis of Heiltsuk place names.

1 Background

My name is Núaqawa. This name comes from my family’s ancestral beginnings thousands of years back, in stories told from the beginning of time. My English name is Evelyn Windsor Wákas (Great River). Windsor is my married name. I come from chiefly ancestors on both sides of my family. The stories from our beginning of time are important to pass on. History was always passed on in story form.

Báxvbakvalañusiwa is the story of the origins or life, or Multiple stages of transformation. You will find this some time called Cannibal at the North End of the World. This story (mythology, legend, whatever you may call it) comes from the upper end of Oweekino Lake in River’s inlet. Both my parents come from this story.

The story (of Báxvbakvalañusiwas) was told to me over and over as far back as I can remember by both sides of my parents. This story was (also) told to Boas. We have dances called “The Cedar Bark Dance Series”. It was said by the woman (rooted to the earth) (to) use these dances to remember this time. Our stories, language, songs, dances and names are the history of who and where we come from.

I am one of the Wakashan speaking group. I speak the ‘Wuíšala (Oweekino) language. I learned to speak Háílzaqvla (Heiltsuk) language, and am now teaching this language. At five years old I was taken away from my parents

---

1 Evelyn Windsor’s lineage on both sides (as daughter of Chief Simon Walkus Sr. and Elizabeth Humchitt) is recorded in more detail in Oowekeeno Oral Traditions, as told by the late Chief Simon Walkus Sr., National Museum of Man Mercury Series, 1982.

2 Oowekeeno Oral traditions cites Boas, 1935 for this translation. The story in its whole form recounts the development of mankind through stages of development.

3 Evelyn Windsor translated this story from her father’s narrative telling. It was subsequently published as Oowekeeno Oral Traditions, pp 47-69. Báxvbakvalañusiwa refers to a spirit who eventually becomes turned into mosquitoes.
and grandparents. We did not know the English language. So when I went to school, we as children who went to residential school were punished if we spoke our language. Each summer I spoke my language because my family couldn’t understand English. I have very little memory of the time I was in school. The devastation was too much, because I came from a kind and loving family and then (was) taken from them.

My home is very isolated, but I managed to teach myself everything I could lay my hands on. I didn’t want to be left behind (education-wise). When I married I worked cannery. When the canneries closed on the coast I got a job as a nurse’s aid in the hospital here in Bella Bella. It was here that I became a mediator between the elders and nurses and doctors and the linguists who came from Holland to begin to work on the dictionary of the Heiltsuk and Oweekino language.

Fritz Kortland was the first linguist to come here, but couldn’t stay for family reasons. John Rath was next. When work needed help he asked for my help. I left my job at the hospital to work with him. When he didn’t need my help anymore, he and Jennifer Carpenter told me to go to the University of Victoria to take the Linguistic course there. I came back when I was finished and started teaching the language here at the school. I am now working part time with Susan Russell teaching the new language teachers-to-be. Susan is from Simon Fraser University. She asked me to write this paper on geographical place names for the conference.

2 Heiltsuk place names

We the Wakashan people all live by the shores of the waters and rivers. They have been our highway, our garden and our source of medicinal healing. The lands also provided us with many things, such as house, canoe, food, medicine etc. The cedar tree is the tree of life from the cradle to the grave.

We all have our story about the world flood. There is a story about the two mountains nearby. It is said that ‘Másq̱əṉx̱i asked ‘Q̱ám̱i “Are you still above water?” ‘Q̱ám̱i answered and said “I am almost under”. Then Másq̱əṉx̱i threw a piece of himself to the top of ‘Q̱ám̱i. The nearby people saved themselves on these two mountains. These two mountains are ‘Wuq̱iḻa̱tx̱v people’s flood story. ‘Másq̱əṉx̱i means ‘One in the water’. ‘Q̱ám̱i means ‘Right to the face (of the mountain)’.

1. ‘Másq̱əṉx̱i Ṋm-n-s-ːgm-ːx-ːx-
   one- (?)-bulky object/face- (?)- on the water
   ‘One in the water’

2. ‘Q̱ám̱i Ḹa-ːgm-ːi straight.to- bulky object/face -it ‘Right to the face (of the mountain)’
3. ‘Wuyalitaqv
   ‘Wuya- la – itxv
   seaward-location-tribe

We live now at Waglisla.

4. Waglisla
   Wa- gl- is- la
   flow river- on –beach- place/location

Farther on the beach is a place called Wabalisla

5. Wabalisla
   Wa-ba- j-is-la flow river-point- (?) -beach-place.location

Another place is called xisbais

6. xisbais
   xis- ba- -is
   far-point-beach

Across from Waglisla is a place called Plidalá.

7. Plidalá
   pl- ba - la narrow-point-place

To go down to the beach is lánčs

8. lánčs
   la – nč - s
   go- down-beach

To go up to the forest is láxsyls

9. láxsyls
   la- xs- ýl- s
   go- straight-forest-ground.land

An inlet is g[di]xa

10. g[di]xa
    glt4- ixa

4 glt is an allomorph of gld
Glidičas Daqvú is the inlet belonging to Daqvú (Spiller Inlet). Daqvú was one of the Chiefs that came from that inlet.

Glícívális is a long pass (Return Channel)

11. Glícívális Glt- siwa -la- is long- through-go-beach

‘Kvái (is from) ‘Kviyái, Sitting on the water.

12. ‘Kvái
kvi - ya – i sit.plural- left- they

I have been wondering if this really meant the two people (the son and his grandmother) who were left at ’Kvai, and the tribe all moved across to an island. This story is in the Bella Bella Tales. Boas gathered stories from the Bella Bella and River’s Inlet people.

Other Heiltsuk placenames are:

13. ‘Háxíğivis Port John
háx- i- ġvis
inland/forest- (?)- on – beach
Inland side of an island

14. ‘Hażxista’áislá
háx- sista - áis – lá wide- circular-beach –location

15. ‘Cábálíla a point in Roscoe Inlet čá- bá- lí- la flow- point- location – shore

16. ‘Cígvgás at Briggs Inlet, a portage place ćiqv - as go.over.land- place for a place for going overland

17. ġažxaxli small island near Martins Island
ṅaža- xli

5 ġićv is an allomorph of ġićv
Acknowledgements

I would like to thank Jennifer Carpenter and the Heiltsuk Cultural Education Centre, Waglisla, for permission to use the information of place names that we gathered some years ago from the Heiltsuk elders. The Cultural Centre is the place of much of my research.